curriculum vitae

“Exceptionally good photographs... Just the kind of pictures I admire.”

Wolf Suschitzky, photographer, cinemaphotographer.

“Having an astute eye must be one of the prerequisites of a photographer’s armoury but it’s surprisingly rare. Alex’s photographs however are riddled with that quality and also convey a sense of humour which is difficult to achieve at will.

His range of subjects speak of secret worlds of nooks and crannies and a wider and more public face where his subjects never fail to provide the quirks and nuances that he portrays so well.”

Robin Bell, black and white printer.

“Alexander Brattell’s photographs, like the barking of the dog in the darkness, draw our attention to what might be there, and alert us to the fact that what we see is simply what we see, not the totality of what exists.”

Vasileios Kantas, photography theorist.

“Your work expands awareness to the things not usually seen, in ways not usually perceived.”

Jackie Hayles, special needs teaching assistant.

“Alex Brattell’s photographs are like half-written stories, perfectly poised between a before and after, that ask the viewer to fill in the gaps. They were inspirational material for our poets to create poems with”

George Palmer, Apples & Snakes.
